SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1697

USDA Policy on Cooperatives

Farmers and other rural residents have long recognized cooperative action as an effective instrument to help them adjust to a dynamic society. A progressive farm policy includes support for those who seek to help themselves through constructive group action.

Forty-one years ago, Congress approved the Agricultural Marketing Act. In it, Congress said: "...it is hereby declared to be the policy of Congress to promote the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce, so that the industry of agriculture will be placed on a basis of economic equality with other industries...by encouraging the organization of producers into effective associations or corporations under their own control for greater unity of effort in marketing and by promoting the establishment and financing of a farm marketing system of producer-owned and producer-controlled cooperative associations and other agencies."

In addition, Congress has by law authorized the Department

- to help farmers improve their marketing, purchasing, and service cooperatives by studying their organization and operations and providing assistance to management;
- to promote the knowledge of cooperative principles and practices;
- to use cooperatives in its price support, commodity loan, crop insurance, and marketing agreements and orders programs;
- to lend money to cooperatives for electric and telephone service;
- to assist rural people and their communities to improve their economic and social positions through effective self-help programs and credit;
- to encourage joint action of farmers by eliminating discrimination on the part of handlers against farmers who are members of a cooperative.

It is the policy of the Department to carry out the full intent and spirit of these laws and to offer maximum encouragement to cooperatives as a means of improving farmers' incomes and developing rural America. It is imperative that we renew and continuously strengthen our efforts to do so.

COOPERATION

Therefore, I hereby direct

- (1) the Administrator of each Agency in the Department
 - to reexamine each year each of his programs and, where necessary, reshape them to carry out the full intent of the law and Department policy so as to offer maximum encouragement to the growth and development of sound cooperatives; and
 - to report each year on such redirection of programs as he has taken pursuant to this Memorandum and continuing efforts to encourage cooperative growth and development.
- (2) The Under Secretary to analyze these reports and recommend to me such action as he believes is necessary to implement effectively this Memorandum.

Secretary's Memorandum No. 1540, dated July 9, 1963, is hereby repealed.

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1699

National Cattle Industry Advisory Committee

1. Long-range objectives. The production and marketing of beef cattle and calves constitutes a major segment of U.S. agriculture. Furthermore, forces which influence prices and incomes received by cattle producers also have important repercussions on markets for other farm products such as feed grains. It is to the consumers interest to have a domestic cattle industry that will provide an adequate supply of beef at reasonable prices. Current developments are having a significant impact on domestic cattle and beef markets and therefore deserve industry-wide consideration. The development of long-range objectives which will assure an adequate national supply of beef and satisfactory prices is a matter of considerable public interest.
2. Committee Established. I hereby establish a National Cattle Industry Advisory Committee and find it is in the public interest in connection with the performance of duties conferred on this Department by law. The areas of consideration of the Advisory Committee will be broad in nature, including (a) imports of beef, veal and live animals and their effects on the domestic economy; (b) international trade negotiations pertaining to beef and related products; (c) activities designed to affect the domestic consumption of beef and veal including Departmental purchase programs; (d) policies related to feeding and other production practices; and (e) other conditions and developments relating to prices, production, and marketing of cattle and beef.
3. Membership. Committee members will be appointed by the Secretary. The Committee may include but shall not be limited to representatives of ranchers and cattle feeders, shipping associations, packers, handlers, and retailers. The Committee shall terminate two years from the date of this Memorandum, and shall meet at the request of the Chairman to advise the Department on legislative proposals and other matters pertaining to cattle and beef. Travel and per diem expenses for committee members will be available in accordance with applicable statutes and regulations.

The Director of Agricultural Economics will be Chairman of the Committee. The Administrators of the Consumer and Marketing Service and the Foreign Agricultural Service will be Vice-Chairmen. The Director of the Livestock Division of the Consumer and Marketing Service shall be Executive Secretary.

Secretary's Memorandum No. 1555 dated May 15, 1964, is hereby superseded.

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1700

Establishment of the USDA Management Improvement Program

President Nixon, in a recent message to Congress, said, "No government program should be permitted to have a life of its own, immune from periodic review of its effectiveness ... This is the time for cutting out waste and cutting down costs with new vigor and new determination."

I fully support the President in his drive to improve management and increase program effectiveness. I expect each agency head, manager, and employee of the Department of Agriculture to assume a personal obligation in helping to achieve the President's goals. Together, I know we can help the President in his efforts to deliver government services to the American people with increased effectiveness and efficiency.

This memorandum establishes the USDA Management Improvement Program in response to Bureau of the Budget Circular No. A-44, Revised. This new program is a total management improvement effort.

We need to identify and thoroughly examine persistent problem areas where they exist. We must seek new ways to make our mission more responsive to public needs. I ask your best efforts in finding solutions to old problems, in avoiding new problem areas, and in devising new ways of providing better public service.

This new program requires that goals be established, and plans developed, to improve USDA program effectiveness and to achieve cost reductions. A progress reporting system will be initiated so results can be measured. Persons making an outstanding contribution to our management improvement program will be recognized. We will expand the exchange and promotion of successful ideas.

I have designated Assistant Secretary for Administration Joseph M. Robertson as the USDA Management Improvement Officer. Carl B. Barnes, Director of Personnel, will serve as Deputy USDA Management Improvement Officer. They will issue specific instructions for the USDA Management Improvement Program.

This memorandum is effective immediately. It supersedes and rescinds Chapter 14, Title I, of the Department's Administrative Regulations, which directed the USDA Cost Reduction and Operations Improvement Program.

Coordination of Information Work

Because of the growing importance of information support by all media and methods of communications of the programs of the Department, central coordination and policy direction of the Department's information programs are increasingly vital. Authority for Departmentwide leadership in planning, preparing, and handling of information programs and activities is vested in the Director of Information in 1AR220 of the Department's regulations. The Director of Information coordinates the information policies and activities of the several agencies of the Department, both in Washington and in the field.

In particular, visual materials originating from the Department's Washington headquarters or produced in the field under agency guidance should be developed either directly or in collaboration with the centralized visual services of the Office of Information. The centralized services, now provided by the Art and Graphics Division, the Exhibits Service, the Motion Picture Service, and the Photography Division of the Office were established by Secretarial directive in 1954 to plan, produce, procure, and coordinate visual materials economically and efficiently and to avoid duplication of work and equipment. These principles of centralization still apply and every effort shall continue to be made to insure that there is no duplication of personnel skills or improper use of such skills while executing an effective information program.

All visual materials shall be produced on a reimbursable basis by the Office of Information or by purchases which the Office of Information and the agencies collaborate on obtaining. The Office of Information shall be responsible for final clearance of such purchases (Agriculture Procurement Regulations 4-4.5099).

Legislative provision for litigation should place litigating authority in the Attorney General, to be exercised as he deems appropriate. Suggested litigation provision forms are:

- (a) "A civil action authorized to be brought under this Act shall be referred to the Attorney General for appropriate action."
- (b) "In case of refusal to obey a subpoena issued to any person, the Secretary may request the Attorney General to invoke the aid of a court of the United States to secure compliance."
- (c) "Whenever the Secretary finds a violation has occurred, he may (issue an order, assess a penalty, etc.). Upon failure of the offending party to (comply with the order, pay the penalty, etc.), the Secretary may request the Attorney General to commence action in a court of the United States to secure compliance."

The Office of the General Counsel should be consulted when standard language, such as the foregoing, would appear inappropriate.

Reports on pending legislation should oppose any provisions which infringe upon the Attorney General's responsibilities or discretion. Examples of such situations are included in Circular A-99.

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1704

Minority-Owned Banks

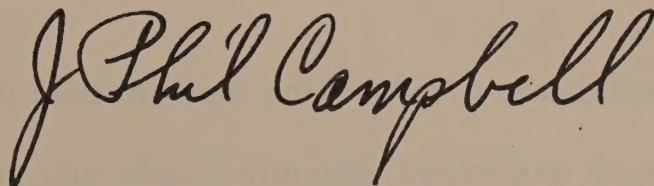

The attached Memorandum to Heads of Departments and Agencies requests the cooperation of this Department in encouraging and promoting the development of minority-owned financial institutions. It asks that we review activities which involve the control of funds on deposit in banks and report the results to the Department of the Treasury.

To comply with this request you should initiate a review of activities to determine whether minority-owned financial institutions can be used to a greater extent by agencies of this Department. By August 28 the following information should be reported to the Office of Budget and Finance:

1. The funds under your control in cities where minority banks are located. Indicate the type and number of accounts and the banks where they are presently located.
2. Of the total in these accounts, by city, what is the potential that might be transferred to minority banks?
3. How soon would it be possible to start using new accounts in minority banks or transferring some accounts from major banks to minority banks?

A list of minority-owned banks is attached for your information.

Questions concerning this memorandum may be referred to Jerome A. Miles, extension 7451.

MEMORANDUM TO HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

From the outset it has been the policy of this Administration to encourage and promote the development of minority-owned enterprises. The Office of Minority Business Enterprise, Department of Commerce, has coordinated the efforts of all government agencies and departments in this area.

One of the most crucial factors in the development and operation of any business organization is the financing. Therefore, the government's efforts to increase the deposit flows into minority banks are significant for several reasons. First, minority banks are themselves small minority enterprises. Second, most of the commercial accounts of minority banks are other minority businesses. Third, the development of personnel trained in finance is essential to build the available pool of individuals with a financial background in minority communities.

How can your agency and department help? You should start by reviewing every activity under your control, direct and indirect, which involves the control of funds on deposit in banks. Secondly, ask yourself the following questions:

1. Do you maintain accounts in cities where minority banks are now in operation or will be opened?
2. Could these minority banks provide you with the same service you are now getting from your present bank? If not, could part of this business be converted to minority banks?
3. What discretionary accounts do you now operate, for example, time deposits or certificates of deposit which could in effect be placed anywhere?
4. What programs do you fund through contractual arrangements?
5. If your accounts in any city where minority banks are located are handled on a rotating basis, what banks participate in this rotation? What kind of timetable is involved?

6. Who is the individual in your department or regional or local office who could be contacted by the head of a minority bank to discuss this program?

In cities where additional guidance is needed with respect to the magnitude of the transfer of funds or other questions, please contact Mr. Sidney Cox, Assistant Fiscal Assistant Secretary, Room 3458 Main Treasury (184-2861).

So that we may obtain a clearer picture of the potential impact of this program, we would like to have a memorandum from each of you by September 1 which would include the following information:

1. The funds under your control in cities where minority banks are located. Please indicate the type and number of accounts and the banks where they are presently located.

2. Of the total in these accounts, by city, what is the potential that might be transferred to minority banks?

3. How soon would it be possible to start using new accounts in minority banks or transferring some accounts from major banks to minority banks?

Please forward this information to Mr. E. J. Gannon, Room 3425 Main Treasury.

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1704, SUPPLEMENT 1

Minority-Owned Banks

Secretary's Memorandum No. 1704 initiated the Government-wide Deposit Solicitation Program in the Department of Agriculture.

An interim report from the Treasury states through the end of October 1971 deposits generated by the Federal Government in minority banks exceeded $57 million. That figure represents 60% more than the goal of $35 million, which was set in October 1970. Agriculture's share of this goal was $2 million. We exceeded our goal with deposits totaling $2.4 million.

The Department is continuing this program with the same emphasis as last year. You should make all reasonable efforts to maintain the present level of deposits with these institutions and to place further deposits with them wherever possible.

Quarterly reports of deposits in minority-owned banks and total deposits in cities where these banks are located are to be submitted to the Office of Budget and Finance beginning with the quarter ending March 31, 1972. These reports should be submitted as soon as possible after the end of the quarters so that reports may be submitted to the Treasury Department.

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1704, REVISED

Minority-Owned Banks

In a Memorandum to Heads of Departments and Agencies dated July 31, 1970, the Under Secretary of the Treasury requested the cooperation of this Department in encouraging and promoting the development of minority-owned financial institutions. On October 13, 1971, Executive Order 11625 was issued to strengthen the national program for minority business enterprise. This commitment was reemphasized in President Ford's memorandum of December 11, 1974, to Heads of Federal Agencies, when the President stated: "an important objective of my Administration will be assistance to disadvantaged minorities to further allow their participation in the economic benefits of the private enterprise system."

The Department is continuing the Minority-Owned Bank Deposit Program with a renewed emphasis. USDA agencies will make all reasonable efforts to maintain the present level of deposits with these institutions and to place further deposits with them wherever possible.

The Rural Minority Business Assistance Division, Office of Equal Opportunity, now has the responsibility for this program. Quarterly reports of deposits in minority-owned banks and total deposits in cities where these banks are located, which were previously submitted to the Office of Management and Finance, will now be submitted to the Office of Equal Opportunity, (OEO), Rural Minority Business Assistance Division, beginning with the quarter ending September 30, 1975. OEO will issue instructions on reporting requirements and will also periodically issue to USDA agencies an updated roster of minority banks. These quarterly reports should be submitted as soon as possible after the end of each quarter so that necessary reports may be submitted to the Treasury Department.

Secretary's Memorandum 1704, dated August 13, 1970, Secretary's Memorandum No. 1704, Supplement 1, dated February 14, 1972, and Secretary's Memorandum No. 1704, Supplement 12, dated June 11, 1975, are hereby superseded.

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1706

Science and Education Regional Workshops

In the development of the Department's research program and the coordination of USDA research with that of other public and private agencies, the advice and counsel of non-Government persons provides a vital link with the interests of producers, processors, distributors, and consumers of agricultural commodities. Section 302 of the Research and Marketing Act of 1946 (7 U.S.C. 1621-1629) authorizes the Secretary to call upon representatives of producers, industry, government, and science to assist as members of public and industry advisory committees in shaping research objectives.

The Department is also faced with a continuing problem of maintaining effective communication with the many organizations interested in agricultural research and extension. After careful review by the Department and consultation with the National Agricultural Research Advisory Committee and the Agricultural Research Policy Advisory Committee, it has been decided to restructure the use of advisory committees authorized under the Research and Marketing Act to broaden their scope to obtain advice on all programs related to research and extension programs of not only this Department but also research programs of state, public, and private agencies.

In cooperation with the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, Regional Agricultural Workshops will be organized to evaluate how well the needs are being served by current and projected science and education programs for specific commodities or problems. The workshops will be open to all persons or organizations having an interest in research and education programs. They will provide a means of communicating with a larger number of individuals and groups. The establishment of regional workshops is in the public interest in connection with the performance of the duties and responsibilities of the Department.

The Director of Science and Education will be general chairman of the Science and Education Regional Workshops. He shall select a chairman for each subgroup of the workshops from among the staff of the Science and Education Agencies of this Department.

Participants in the workshops will be divided into commodity and problem oriented subgroups to consider in detail the opportunities, problems, and needs in their respective areas of interest. Program advisors, representative of producers, processors, distributors, and consumers of agricultural commodities, will be appointed by the Secretary as members of the subgroups for a period of two years. They will analyze the information presented, and develop recommendations for submission to the Department and the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges. Staff services for the workshops will be provided by the Science and Education Staff.

The regional program advisors also will serve as advisors to the Director of Science and Education. They will meet at his request whenever advice on specific problems is desired.

The regional program advisors will (1) acquaint themselves with the problems of producers, processors, distributors, and consumers; (2) recommend adjustments in current research and extension programs, in order that available funds, personnel and facilities will be used on problems of greatest importance; and (3) recommend new work or expansion of current work when the current program is insufficient to develop solutions for important problems.

Travel and per diem expenses for program advisors will be available in accordance with applicable statutes and regulations.

Secretary's Memorandum No. 1544, dated August 26, 1963, and its supplements are hereby superseded.

One way we can participate in voluntary action is in partnership with the government. In Executive Order 11470, President Nixon established "... [A] National Voluntary Action Program to encourage and stimulate more widespread and effective voluntary action for solving public domestic problems." In response to this Executive Order, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is sponsoring its own Voluntary Action Program.

I charge each agency head to see that the following specific actions are taken:

1. Each agency shall review and update guidelines and specific procedures for further involvement of volunteers, either as individuals or as organizations, to strengthen the impact and usefulness of our programs and activities.

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1707

You and Voluntary Action

As individual citizens, you and I are the only ones who can decide to do or not to do voluntary work to help our fellow citizens. Our actions as individual volunteers or as members of a volunteer group reflect the intensity of our convictions by the use of our personal resources.

As a nation, we are firmly dedicated to the development and protection of human dignity. Some people, because of unfortunate circumstances affecting their living conditions, cannot fully participate in the benefits of our society. Our Department prides itself in working with local citizens to carry out programs that are mutually beneficial. Voluntary action is one important means to achieve this desirable goal. I urge each of you to give the following program your earnest consideration, support and participation. Volunteers and volunteer leaders are central to the success of many of the programs of the Department of Agriculture.

One way we can participate in voluntary action is in partnership with the government. In Executive Order 11470, President Nixon established ". . . [A] National Voluntary Action Program to encourage and stimulate more widespread and effective voluntary action for solving public domestic problems." In response to this Executive Order, the U. S. 1. Each agency shall review and update guidelines and specific procedures for further involvement of volunteers, either as individuals or as organizations, to strengthen the impact and usefulness of its programs and activities.

COMMITTEES (Voluntary Action USDA Interagency)

2. Each agency shall examine, explore and develop specific working agreements with other agencies or departments to improve the coordination and effectiveness of programs for volunteer participation.
3. Each agency shall develop procedures to give appropriate and visible recognition to significant achievements by volunteer citizens and groups.
4. Each agency shall encourage its employees to participate as volunteers in community activities during off-duty or leave periods and to assist organizations to which they belong in promoting such activities.
5. Each agency shall make known the activities of volunteers to prospective volunteers of its own staff and other agencies of the Department who can help create conditions conducive to voluntary action.

Each agency is challenged to make suggestions for improving volunteer work to the Cabinet Committee on Voluntary Action through the USDA Liaison Office to further the National Voluntary Action Program.

To emphasize the importance of volunteer participation in USDA programs and activities each Assistant Secretary, the Director of Science and Education, and the Director of Agricultural Economics shall encourage the agencies for which he is assigned general direction and supervision to submit innovative ideas for establishing more and better voluntary programs. In order to identify and promote the Department's voluntary action programs, the agencies below are requested to name a key representative to a USDA Interagency Committee for Voluntary Action. This Committee will consult with and assist agencies in carrying out the above actions.

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1707 (Revised)

Voluntary Action

In Executive Order 11470, President Nixon established a "National Voluntary Action Program to encourage and stimulate more widespread and effective voluntary action for solving public domestic problems." This Department has a long history of working closely with volunteer organizations and individuals. Under Secretary's Memorandum No. 1707 the agencies of the Department have strengthened their participation in voluntary action and encouraged their staffs to participate as volunteers. This memorandum is revised to further strengthen USDA participation in the voluntary action program.

There are three general phases of USDA participation: (1) Voluntary participation by USDA personnel in community activity and in organizations serving the needs of people; (2) use of USDA facilities by volunteer organizations in connection with their programs, and (3) cooperation with volunteer organizations and individuals that helps USDA and such groups achieve program objectives or purposes related to broad USDA missions, or will otherwise contribute to solving public domestic problems.

Providing information to personnel to encourage and facilitate their private voluntary service, but exercising care to avoid invasion of their privacy, is a continuing responsibility of agency heads. The Office of Personnel is responsible for coordinating and assisting agency implementing actions. Use of USDA facilities in the field and the Washington area may in many cases be very valuable to local voluntary groups for meetings, training programs and similar purposes. It is in the public interest and the interest of USDA programs to provide for such use when it will not interfere with the intended use of the facilities or with USDA programs, and when compatible with applicable law and regulations. The Office of Plant and Operations is responsible for assisting agencies to implement this policy in a manner consistent with applicable law and regulations.

In the field the work of citizens who voluntarily and without compensation contribute their time, initiative, skills, dedication, and other resources to causes in which they are interested are very important to achieving the objectives to which USDA programs are directed. By working with such groups, we help them achieve desirable objectives of the people of the community, promote national welfare and increase the effectiveness of our programs. Agencies with field staff and programs should continue to develop cooperative relationships with such groups and individuals. The USDA Interagency Committee for Voluntary Action is hereby reconstituted.

Coordination of USDA Work with Inter-Agency Economic Adjustment Committee

1. PURPOSE. The purpose of this memorandum is to establish the Department's policies and procedures with respect to the efforts of the Inter-Agency Economic Adjustment Committee (IAEAC).
2. BACKGROUND. The President has established an Inter-Agency Committee to deal with the economic problems created by shifting the emphasis from defense to peace-time activities. This Committee, chaired by the Secretary of Defense, is designed to focus the resources of all of the Government agencies on alleviating the problems which result from personnel reductions as operating levels at selected defense installations throughout the country are cut back. In addition to Defense and Agriculture, organizations represented on the Committee include Commerce, Labor, Health, Education and Welfare, Housing and Urban Development, Department of Transportation, Small Business Administration, and General Services Administration.
3. POLICY. Each agency in the Department is asked to determine the ways in which it can provide support for the projects undertaken by the Inter-Agency Economic Adjustment Committee. Since development is primarily a local responsibility, I am asking that State Rural Development Committees (SRDC's) examine the various projects that arise in their areas and that they determine the ways in which the Department's resources can best be utilized to help the local people to help themselves. I am also asking that the Regional Commissions ^{1/} be informed of all such situations which affect them and that the agencies be responsive to requests from both the SRDC's and the Commissions in this regard.
4. IMPLEMENTATION. The Assistant Secretary for Rural Development and Conservation has been appointed to represent the Department in these matters.

^{1/} Established under Title V of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965.

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1713

Department Safety Program

President Nixon has initiated a new Government-wide safety program "ZERO IN on Federal Safety" (see ~~reverse of this memorandum~~ ^{attachment}). This program will start January 1, 1971, and continue for two years.

This new program states that "each Federal agency must find ways to locate the specific work hazards which injure its employees--and remove them." This will require a coordinated interagency safety and accident prevention effort.

A USDA Safety Council is established to help develop and promote an effective Department-wide safety program.

The Director of Personnel, who is responsible for the Department's safety program, will serve as Chairman of the USDA Safety Council. The Department's Safety Officer will serve as Executive Secretary to the Council. Safety Officers from the following Agencies will be members of the Council: Agricultural Research Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Consumer and Marketing Service, ~~Federal~~ Extension Service, Farmers Home Administration, Forest Service, Rural Electrification Administration, Soil Conservation Service, Office of Management Services, and the Office of Plant and Operations. The names of Agency representatives to the Council shall be submitted to the Director of Personnel within 15 days after the date of this Memorandum.

Included among its activities and functions, the Council will: (1) Serve as an advisor on safety program matters to the Director of Personnel and such other Department officials as may be appropriate; (2) Help coordinate the efforts of the Department to promote a positive action-oriented safety program; (3) Cooperate and assist in the Department's farm safety responsibilities; and (4) Serve as the Department's liaison with other organizations concerned with safety.

Memorandum No. 1611 dated March 8, 1967, is hereby superseded.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

It is most important that the men and women who serve our Nation in the Federal service be fully safeguarded from injury in the performance of their tasks. They must suffer no avoidable risk.

At the end of this year, we shall complete Mission SAFETY-70 which has averted over 22 thousand disabling injuries since 1964. Nonetheless the 43,000 such injuries sustained last year are of deep continuing concern. They show the need for renewed effort.

Mission SAFETY-70 provided a broad, overall approach to Federal work safety. Now we need a specific approach. Accordingly, I am today announcing a new safety program for all Federal personnel.

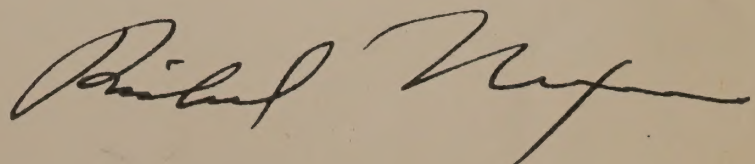

"ZERO IN on Federal Safety" will start January 1st and continue for two years.

Under this program, each Federal agency must find ways to locate the specific work hazards which injure its employees -- and remove them. For example, handling materials causes over one-quarter of our job injuries, slips and falls over one-fifth.

Whether the agency's chief problems stem from these or other causes, it is evident that job injuries can be prevented only where they occur -- by the agency at the place of work. Tested techniques exist to prevent them.

At my request, Secretary of Labor Hodgson has today written all agency heads detailing the new program.

I have proposed many programs to improve the quality of life in America. That quality in the workplaces of the Federal service must be the best -- both for the protection of our employees and as an example to the Nation.
